Resume EWA

The women we researched in this project are admirable even when they are not daily on television or did not gather extraordinary property. They represent certain values and principles, without which the society languishes and is less colourful. They were born in the twenties of the last century into the world of immense historical events, taking place in the small country on the dividing line between the East and the West. They have experienced the forties marked by the war and the life in the Protectorate, enthusiasm of the "golden" sixties cooled down by arriving tanks, dull ages of normalization and the beginning of democracy with life values that are still valid on the brink of new millennia. They have placed their personal stories and life experiences in wide contexts and it is our duty to bear witness by reviving memories, reminding and comparing life events as it is done by partners in the project EWA, European women, 2010-2012.

Role Models

Ruth Hálová (86 years of age): a woman who deeply loves life despite all the pitfalls she has encountered throughout her life.

Inge Svandová-Koutecká (76 let): the first lady of Czech opera direction, a singer, costume designer and lecturer, who is still very vital, active and creative.
