

Unitre Macomer, Sardinia Grundtvig Learning Partnership 2010-2012

Resume EWA

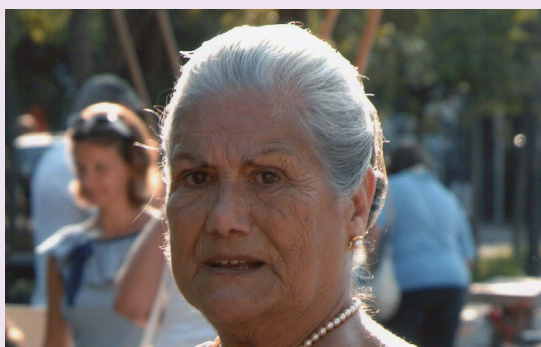

Participation in Ewa project has been for our group a great opportunity to understand, beyond boundaries and stereotypes, how older women in different European countries deal with everyday difficulties, what are their defense and achievement strategies in a still masculine oriented society. We could meet great women who have succeeded in taking full responsibility for their own lives, even in older age, keeping an active role in society even with different social, economic, educational, political opportunities. Learning how we can lead an autonomous and active life as long as possible can help not only ourselves but also our communities and society as a whole. There is a lot of life after 70!

Role Models

Paola Di Renzo, 72 years old, is a lively, nice, art loving woman. Acting on her own decision, developing her personal talents, she could see the light at the end of a long, difficult and sad relationship. Now she is happy, active, full of interests, she is a good artist and collaborates with the English school she founded and, finally, she loves and even rates herself highly.

Antonella Deriu, 73 years old, could turn her sorrow for her daughter's death into a resource for weaker children in Kenya, Tanzania and Philippines. She keeps on following her daughter's voluntary service in the Red Cross, considering this decision an absolute positive experience and the best way to transform such a sad and painful personal event into a resource for the benefit of others.

www.european-women.eu